ABSTRACT

One method embodiment of processing color data includes rendering the color data into two color spaces in sequence before transfer to an output stream. Input data is rendered into a color image within an intent and format independent working color space. The color image is then rendered into a media dependent color space.

Case No. 10018494-1